- 6.3 Faculty members who are above the rank of those persons eligible for promotion participate in a yearly Department review process of a candidate's credentials and make promotion recommendations to the Department Head as stipulated in section 5.5.
- 6.4 All tenured faculty participate in a review process of a candidate's credentials for tenure and make tenure recommendations to the Department Head.

Article VII: Processes for the Review of Faculty Performance

- 7.1 Consistent with University guidelines, the Department Head will meet with each faculty member at least once each year to make plans, set goals and objectives, and review performance. In such conferences, performance will be compared with the specific goals that the faculty member and the Head have previously set. The nature of this discussion is unique for each individual, reflecting the personal interests and expertise of the faculty member. The two primary functions of an academic department within a major university are the dissemination of knowledge and the discovery of new knowledge. Thus, teaching (to include advising) and scholarly/creative work (research, writing, presenting, and editorial work) are deemed most significant in the evaluation of meritorious activity. Although it does not carry comparable weight, professional service is important and is expected. Examples of professional service activities to be encouraged are holding office or serving on active committees within academic organizations; serving on department, college, and/or university committees; and engaging in community service that is directly related to one's academic expertise. It is a normal expectation that each faculty member will be a conscientious teacher (preparing adequately for class, returning student work promptly; advising students appropriately; keeping abreast of the current knowledge in one's academic area) and will engage in scholarly and professional activities. It is when faculty achievement rises above the expected norm that work is considered meritorious. The Department Head's evaluation of the faculty member should be in written form and presented to the faculty member in a timely fashion. After the faculty member has had an opportunity to read and sign the written evaluation, copies of the evaluation will be forwarded to the Dean of the College of Education, Health, and Human Sciences along with merit recommendations for members of the Department who have earned a meritorious rating. If the faculty member should disagree with the content of the written evaluation, he or she will be provided an opportunity to amend the evaluation with objections and dissenting opinions. The mechanism for such amendments will be agreed upon with the Department Head.

- 7.1.1 Retention Review of Probationary Faculty Members. New tenure-track faculty members are generally hired with a full probationary period of seven years, and are considered for tenure no later than the sixth year of employment at UTK. The latter time period can be shortened with agreement of the Department Head and the faculty member. Probationary faculty members are evaluated for retention during fall semester each year. Probationary faculty member will submit a dossier documenting their accomplishments and progress in the areas of Research, Teaching, and Service. The contents of the dossier are described in the Manual for Faculty Evaluation. For newly hired faculty members, the scope of the report will begin at the date of hire. The Department Head will seek input from tenured faculty regarding retention or non-retention (See Article 5.5). The standard "Annual Recommendation on Retention" form will be completed and forwarded to the Dean and the Provost/Chief Academic Officer. An enhanced retention review will be held for tenure-track faculty members as outlined in the Manual for Faculty Evaluation.
- 7.1.2 Annual Review of All Faculty Members. All faculty members will submit an annual review during the fall semester of each year. Each faculty member will be asked to provide overviews of their performance in Research, Teaching, and Service during the past 3 years. These overviews will be accompanied by examples of the faculty member's work in each area. A current curriculum vita should also be included.
- 7.1.3 Promotion and Tenure Review. During the sixth year of employment at UTK, tenure-track faculty will be considered for promotion to the rank of Associate Professor and for tenure. Although these two review processes occur concurrently, the decisions regarding promotion and tenure may result in different outcomes. Faculty members under consideration for promotion and tenure will submit a report documenting their accomplishments during the entire time they have been a tenure-track employee at UTK. This report must be accompanied by supporting evidence of the faculty member's scholarly productivity, teaching competence, and participation in service activities. The Faculty is urged to review materials related to the promotion and tenure processes presented in the Faculty Handbook and the Manual for Faculty Evaluation.
- 7.1.4 Triggered Cumulative Review of Tenured Faculty Members. Cumulative performance reviews for tenured faculty are triggered by evaluations from annual reviews. Faculty members whose performance is found to be unsatisfactory in two out of five consecutive years or whose evaluations are any combination of "needs improvement" or "unsatisfactory" in any three of five consecutive years undergo cumulative performance review. Guidelines for this review can be found in the Manual for Faculty Evaluation.

- 7.1.5 Annual Review of Non-Tenure Track (NTT) Faculty Members. All NTT faculty will submit an annual review that covers a three-year period during the fall semester of each year. Each faculty member will be asked to provide overviews of their performance in Research, Teaching, and Service during the past three years.
- 7.1.6 NTT Faculty Promotion Review. The faculty is urged to review materials related to the promotion of Lecturer in the Manual for Faculty Evaluation. For teaching, the dossier should be prepared according to the guidelines for lecturer review (Part VI of the Evaluation Manual). For positions that include both teaching and research, the dossier should be prepared according to the guidelines for lecturer review, but use the tenure track model that organizes materials into two sections: one on teaching and one on research (See Appendix B, sections B and C of the Evaluation Manual). The Manual is designed for lecturer review. However, if a position is more research oriented, substitute "research" for "teaching" in the guidelines and then provide evidence of research excellence. If the faculty member teaches, the lecturer guidelines will be a close match when preparing the dossier.

Article VIII: Compensated Outside Activities

- 8.1 The nature and scope of compensated outside activities appropriate to the academic discipline in the context of the faculty member's performance shall be governed by the provisions of Chapter 7 of the Faculty Handbook.

Article IX: Approval, Endorsement and Amendments of Bylaws

- 9.1 Initial approval of these Bylaws shall be a responsibility of the faculty, with final approval determined by a majority vote in a secret ballot. Eligible voters are defined in Article 4.3-4.3.1.
- 9.2 Final authority for interpretation of these Bylaws shall be the responsibility of a majority of the voting faculty members as determined by section 4.3-4.3.1 of these Bylaws.
- 9.3 All members of the Department must abide by these Bylaws and it is the responsibility of the Head and the Program Coordinators to enforce the provisions of the Bylaws.
- 9.4 It is the responsibility of the faculty to keep the Bylaws up-to-date.
- 9.5 Amendments to the Bylaws
 - 9.5.1 Proposed bylaw amendments may be forwarded by any faculty to the Head. The proposal will be placed on the agenda of the following faculty meeting.

- 9.5.2 Proposed change in the Bylaws will be distributed electronically or in writing to faculty eligible to vote two weeks before a Department faculty meeting is held to consider the proposed Bylaws change.
- 9.5.3 In the Department meeting the faculty will be presented with the amendment and will have an opportunity to provide input.
- 9.5.4 An affirmative vote by two-thirds of the voting faculty shall be required to adopt the proposed amendment. Faculty members eligible to vote are defined in Article 4.3-4.3.1.
- 9.5.5 Archive
 - 9.5.5.1 Article V was modified to reflect a change in university IRB procedures. Faculty voted for the approval of these modifications on May 2, 2016.
 - 9.5.5.2 A section in Article VII was added to reflect on the process of review for Non-Tenure-Track (NTT) Faculty. Faculty voted for the approval of these additions on May 2, 2016.
 - 9.5.5.3 A statement in Article VI was added to reflect on the approval process for faculty teaching courses at the 600 level. Faculty voted for the approval of this addition on March 22, 2017.
 - 9.5.5.4 A new standing committee, Diversity and Inclusion, was developed and a statement was added to describe the purpose, composition and functions of the committee. Faculty voted for the approval of this addition on October 18, 2017.

Notes:

1) Scholarly contributions are expected of all tenure track faculty members. An average of 2-3 refereed journal articles per year is a general expectation. First authored, senior authored, and sole authored publications are highly valued. Faculty members are expected to be grant active as appropriate for their discipline. Participation and presentations in professional conferences or other venues is valued. For tenure and promotion consideration, a faculty member must provide evidence of an independent line of research that makes important contributions to the body of knowledge. Collaborative research is also valued.

2) SAIS scores and other evidence of teaching effectiveness will be used to establish success in teaching. Peer evaluation of teaching is an important consideration for tenure and promotion. High quality mentoring of students (graduate and undergraduate) is an important consideration. Good mentors can provide evidence of the success of their students (winning awards, grants, participation in professional conferences, etc.).

3) Faculty members are expected to contribute to the work of the university by service to the department, college, and university. Each member of the department is expected to make professional contributions through service to professional societies, community organizations, etc. The extent of this service is dependent upon rank and other work-related responsibilities.

Amendments:

1) Language in the "Rating" column was changed to reflect the following changes. These changes were approved by faculty on Dec.2, 2015:

- "Outstanding (Excellent): Far exceeds expectations" to "Far exceeds expectations for rank"
- "More than Expected (Very Good): Exceeds expectations" to "Exceeds expectations for rank"
- "Expected (Good): Meets expectations" to "Meets expectations for rank"
- "Less than Expected (Fair): Falls short of meeting expectations" to "Falls short of meeting expectations for rank"
- "Unsatisfactory (Poor): Falls far short of meeting expectations" to "Falls far short of meeting expectations for rank"

Notes:

1) High quality instruction is expected of all non-tenure track faculty members. Student evaluation scores and other evidence of teaching effectiveness will be used to establish success in teaching. Peer evaluation of teaching is an important consideration for promotion. High quality mentoring of students (graduate and undergraduate) is an important consideration. Good mentors can provide evidence of the success of their students (winning awards, grants, participation in professional conferences, etc.).

2) Not every non-tenure track faculty is expected to publish original research. Those who are teaching 12 credit hours per semester are exempted from this expectation. However, for those who teach less than that, 1-2 refereed journal articles or substantive scholarly works per year is a general expectation. First authored, senior authored, and sole authored publications are highly valued; co-authoring a publication with a student mentored by the non-tenure track faculty member is also valued. Participation and presentations in professional conferences or other venues is valued. For promotion consideration, a non-tenure track faculty member must provide evidence of scholarly contributions to the professional and/or pedagogical literature if she or he teaches less than 12 credits per semester.

3) All non-tenure track faculty members are expected to contribute through service to the department, college, and/or university. Each non-tenure track faculty member in the department is expected to make professional contributions through service to professional societies, community organizations, etc. The extent and scope of this service is dependent upon rank and other work-related responsibilities.

4) In this document, "Assistant, Associate, and Full" refers to Professors of Practice who hold the PhD degree or another terminal degree. This document does not pertain to exempt staff who teach, or adjunct professors, because they are evaluated using a different annual review process.
